

Reading the various news sources that are so easy to access and so prevalent on the internet, one often sees criticism of the policies Kamala Harris has put forth, or maybe how her advocacy for some action or another has changed over the years, or that her plans for her administration aren't clear, etc. etc. etc.

People—and news organizations—have completely missed the point. The real issue is one that needs no clarifying, no more proof, no reliance on one potential policy or another. The only issue at this point is one that is perfectly clear—her opponent must never be allowed to have the power of the Presidency again. If any unthinking people still had any doubt about that before this last week—though the overwhelming evidence of his unfitness was already clear—his behavior during the Presidential candidate debate and his subsequent actions should have erased any lingering doubts from even the most ardent MAGA Republicans.

This country is a land of immigrants. Whether one's ancestors arrived on the Mayflower or in 2024, we are all immigrants. The only exceptions are the indigenous members of the First Nations whose people probably came across an ice bridge from Siberia in prehistory. While lying about his debate performance was harmless—the truth was easy to see by anyone listening to the events that evening—his lies about people from other countries who have recently come to the U.S.A. have no defense. Donald Trump is incapable of telling the truth. His lies flow effortlessly from him—some so blatant and outrageous that even a five year old could debunk them, others that naive adults might have to research a few minutes to uncover. His status as a felon, his documented misuse of women, his meanness, his mendacity, his racism, and his inability to consider any interest beyond his own selfish wants all make him totally unfit and very dangerous for any association with the office of the Presidency.

Kamala Harris is fit for the Presidency. Her policies will undoubtedly not be approved by everyone. But, many of those people who will disagree with proposals she has for her Administration—people as far apart in philosophy and political leanings as Dick Cheney and Bernie Sanders—are supporting her candidacy. And, if any reader of this column has any doubts about this, give me a call. I have a dozen more reasons for you to vote for Harris and against Trump.
